

Cognitive Therapy thought record

This record will help you document your feelings and consider how to harness positive thoughts and let go of negative thoughts.

Things to consider when recording your thoughts

- The situation. Briefly describe the situation that led to your unpleasant feelings. This will help you to remember the situation later when you review your notes.
- Initial thought. What thought first crossed your mind? This was probably a subconscious or automatic thought that you have had before.
- Consider the consequences. Why do you want to change this thinking? What will the consequences be if you don't change? Look at the psychological, physical, professional and relationship consequences.
- Challenge your initial thought. How successful has this thinking been for you in the past? What facts do you have that support or challenge your initial thought? What strengths do you have that you may have overlooked? What advice would you give someone else in the same situation?
- Negative thinking (Optional). Summarise the kind of negative thinking behind your initial thought. Identify one or more of the basic types of negative thinking: all-or-nothing, focusing on the negatives, catastrophising, negative self-labelling, mind reading, should statements.
- Background (Optional): When did you first have initial thoughts like this? How deep do the roots go? Do you know anyone else who thinks like this? How successful has this thinking been for them?
- Alternative thinking. Now that you understand your negative thinking, how could you have handled the situation differently? Drop any negative assumptions and think of possibilities or facts that you may have overlooked.
- Positive belief and affirmation. Write down an affirmation, in a positive form, that reflects your healthier approach. Choose something that you can use as a reminder.
- Action plan. What can you do if this situation arises again? Knowing your tendencies, how can you prepare for this situation? Write a list of strengths you bring to the situation. What can you do if you fall back on old habits?
- Improvement. Do you feel slightly better or more optimistic? This step reinforces the idea that if you change your thinking, you will change your life.
